THE H. & F. QUALITY Oregon Grown Asters For Florists

Cutting Season August 1, to October 1.

Asters in Oregon, Their Natural Home

Since 1905 we have made a specialty of asters for the cut flower market and during this time have tested many of the new and old varieties of this flower. It has been our purpose from the beginning to handle only those asters best suited to the needs of the Florist trade. We find in every instance that our own selection of Oregon Grown seed produces much better results than any seed we can buy, and every aster we handle improves with the culture we give it in fair-mild, productive Oregon.

The aster in its various forms is quite as indispensable in summer for cutting as is chrysanthemums in early autumn and winter. In our improved types of the aster there is certainly a striking resemblance to its splendor and for many reasons they could justly be entitled "The Chrysanthemum of Summer." For these improved forms surely defy in fantastic appearance as well as in size, many varieties of the "Queen of the Autumn.

Our experience in growing this important summer annual for the florists trade has given a wide acquaintance with the many types offered in the seed catalogues of today and their real value commercially. In order that our list may not be confusing, we are offering only the best of variety or form of flower and feel certain that asters can be found in this list to cover every possible need of the professional grower as well as the up-to-date florist.

Peerless Late Branching

This excellent strain of late branching aster of American origin, has steadily improved under rigid culture so that it now fully meets the demand for this type of high class, quick selling commercial aster.

Improved Giant-Crego

This is without doubt one of the best asters now in cultivation; and by our most careful and painstaking selection, it has reached a state of perfection hitherto unknown. The immense fluffy flowers are most beautifully formed, averaging five to six inches in diameter and very full to the center. The form of the flower together with the length of the stem, places it at the head of asters for cutting. The plants are free blooming and vigorous, producing strong stems twenty to thirty inches long. The flowers when cut, keep longer in good condition than many asters of this type. In bloom from mid-August through September.

Prices Reasonable

It is true that we are not seeking a reputation for cheapness but rather place quality first. However we feel that our prices are as low as the best grade can be sold and that no one can supply stock equal to ours for less money.

Improved "Rochester"

In size and beauty the Rochester is second to none. It is among the finest of the midseason asters.

SEEDS IMPORTANT

Seeds play a very important part in the success of every producer of Fancy Asters for cutting. The practice of supplying only the very best grade of seed, will be continued with added zeal because of the marked appreciation shown by so many customers.

IMPROVING SEED STRAINS

Improving seed strains proves to be very tedious and few people have the patience necessary to develop unusual products along these lines. Ardent love for the work, close application and careful attention to the most minute details in the cultivation of our asters, have terminated in the most ideal results; placing our stock ahead of everything on the Pacific Coast.

COMPARISON BY TEST

In order to become familiar with the quality of all asters presented to the trade, exhaustive tests are made annually of all new varieties advertised. Therefore the seed offered in this list may be planted with the confidence that nothing better of its kind can be obtained.

QUALITY OF SEED ASSURED

Ideal conditions are found in Oregon for the successful development of the Aster. While it is not an arid district, the summers are dry and all the Asters being grown under irrigation, gives complete control of the moisture during the growing season, whereby the plants are grown strong and healthy with perfect ripening conditions which is a guarantor of excellent quality and of extraordinary germinating power.
